Haliburton Happenings

A preliminary meeting of the subscribers to the telephone project was held in the town hall on Tuesday night. Mr. D. Paterson, of Lindsay, who has made the canvas of the village on the question, and Mr. Seeds, of the Northern Electric Co., were present to explain the different angles of the question, that is the probable cost of local and trunk lines, the connection with adjoining systems and the relation of all with the control exercised by the Ontario Railway Board. Fifty-five local subscribers have been lined up but less than half of that number made an appearance as no regular notice of meeting had been given. A regularly called meeting will be arranged for soon, at which it is hoped to get underway, and have at least a local exchange working this year.

Mr. Fowler, Solicitor for the Canada Land and Immigration Co., was in town last week and met the council to impress on them the limitations and restrictions under which they must act in regard to the electric light question.

The cool weather of the past week seems to have started quite a number of the visitors away home. Few are coming from the city for holiday, but to realize that September is really a ideal month for camping.

Mrs. Lawrence Holland, who spent several weeks in a Toronto hospital, returned there on Sunday the 21st. The family were brought home on Tuesday and the funeral to Haliburton cemetery took place the following day.

Dr. Baker, of Haliburton, will return on September 5th.

Sir Sam Hughes
Died on Wednesday

After several months' illness from pernicious anemia, Sir Sam Hughes passed away at his residence, Lindsay, on one o'clock on Wednesday morning. The funeral will be held to-day.

Continuation School

Following upon the splendid showing of Wilberforce pupils at the recent entrance examinations the ratepayers have unanimously decided to proceed with the extension of the present school building. Two teachers will be engaged for the forthcoming year and a continuation class formed.

It is hoped to secure the use of the hall until such time as the building can be finished.

Mr. G. E. Pentland, P. S. I. for Haliburton County was present at a meeting held on Wednesday last outlined a scheme for consolidation of rural schools and also continuation work.

At an adjourned meeting on Saturday it was unanimously decided to adopt the plans for starting the continuation class right away.

As there are children in other districts along the I. B. & O. who have passed their entrance examination, this fifth class will no doubt prove greatly beneficial to the whole district.

The room will be added to the school in such manner as to allow of still further addition in years to come when consolidation shall have come into force.

The Children's Excursion

In connection with the children's excursion to the Exhibition, which takes place on Tuesday morning next, Inspector Pentland wishes us to announce that all arrangements are made, and that everything will take place as planned. Through the kindness of the young people of Kinmount, various sorts of entertainment will be given the children who come in on the I. B. & O. line, and from the townships of Lutterworth and Shawdon. The G. T. R. is sending two extra cars for the morning of 30th.

West Guilford

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Roe returned home after spending their holidays with friends at Barrie, Elmville and other points.

Mr. LaRue has finished cutting lumber for this season and is now cutting the shingle stock.

Mr. and Mrs. McGuire and son, of Elmville, returned home after spending a week with Mrs. McGuire's sister, Mrs. G. E. Roe.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sawyer, of Lutterworth Township spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Simms.

Mr. Frank Peck and Mr. Wm. Sims are erecting new dwellings.

Mrs. Bert Boice and daughter returned home after a few weeks visit with friends at Fenelon Falls.

There are 258 sections for cattle at the Canadian National Exhibition, Shorthorns leading with 39.

To My Stanhope Friends

My Dear Friends:
I would not leave you without expressing my heartfelt gratitude to you all.

With a few exceptions, you have been exceedingly good and kind to me and I shall ever love and remember you most affectionally for it. Naturally I feel the parting very keenly, and find it by no means easy to say "Thy will be done." But Haliburton is not so very far away, and I look forward to the pleasure of meeting some of you quite often. Ever regard me as your friend and cease not to remember me in your prayers, for you will be ever present in mine, and my door is open to you night or day.

When for awhile we part,
This thought will soothe our pain;
That we shall still be joined in heart,
And one day meet again.

God bless and prosper you all.
Affectionately yours in Christ,
J. H. STRINGER, R.D.

Fells Station

Threshing is again in vogue and now that Mr. Herbert Jones has a new separator, we will expect he will take lead in this burg.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Goodhand and child of Fairbairn, called at Mr. Poulson's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Carew, Jr., and child and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Henry, of Lindsay, paid a short visit to Mr. Geo. Hopkins last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Peters and family motored to Union Creek on Sunday last.

Mr. C. H. Brown, accompanied by several others, called at Mrs. M. Mitchell's on Sunday last while enroute from Minden to Cambridge, where they reside.

Quite a number from here attended the funeral the late Dominic Ouellet at the R. C. Cemetery on Aug. 14th. He was well liked by all who knew him and the bereaved ones have the sympathy of his many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Poulson and Mr. and Mrs. F. Poulson spent Sunday afternoon at Baddow.

Miss B. Smith, of Fenelon Falls, is holidaying under the parental roof.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hopkins and child called at Mr. F. Poulson's Sunday evening last.

There were a 1,152,000 people at the Canadian National Exhibition last year.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Tuesday 16th, at the home of Mrs. F. Phillips, 25 members being in attendance. After the usual business meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess and a very pleasant time spent in social intercourse.

Mr. J. N. Eades, of Alliston, spent the week-end here, visiting at the home of his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. John Keys, of Montreal, have returned home after a two weeks visit at his old home.

Miss Jackie Wakelin is spending her vacation at the home of her parents.

Mr. Arthur Horn and family motored to Lindsay on Tuesday of this week on a business trip.

Mrs. E. J. Thompson and her niece, Miss Alice Bowins, of Rochester, New York, have returned home, after visiting friends here.

Mrs. William Findlay, of Cleveland, is spending a few weeks in our village.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor
Will you please allow a small space in your paper in regard to the C. O. O. F. Decoration Day and Church Parade on Sunday, Sept. 4th. The Oddfellows would like to see the general public turn out in full force to show their respects to the loved ones that lie in Minden Cemetery by placing a small token of flowers on their graves. Don't forget the date.

Gala Day at Carnarvon

Monday was a Gala Day at Moorefield Lodge, Carnarvon. Guests from Lindsay and Toronto ran off a series of impromptu sports which were designed to afford unlimited amusements for everybody. The results more than justified the efforts put forth. Egg races, foot races, thread and needle and obstacle races, tug-of-war, followed by aquatic races, brought forth amazing amateur achievements. The games were finished by five o'clock when Mrs. Moore brought forth the surprise of the day by serving a chicken dinner such as only she can serve. Favors were distributed to all and the distribution of prizes caused screams of merriment through their selection.

North Wilberforce

Mr. S. W. Reynolds is having an ornamental fence erected in front of his residence, adding greatly to the appearance of his property.

Mrs. B. Minns has returned from a short visit in Toronto where her daughter Miss H. Richardson underwent a slight operation.

Mr. T. McMahon, who has been spending the summer with his brother, Mr. C. McMahon, left for Fenelon Falls on Monday.

Mr. G. E. Pentland, P. S. I. for Haliburton County was in town on Wednesday last.

Rev. G. G. Stone spent last week with friends in Bobcaygeon.

Mr. F. G. Agnew spent a few days in Bancroft last week.

Rally Sunday, Sept 18th. Remember the date.

A special service will be held in St. Margaret's Church on Wednesday August 31st. Five Clergy are expected to take part in this service and it is hoped that a large congregation will be present and help to make this the best service ever held in the church.

Rev. P. M. Lamb, of St. Cuthbert's, Toronto, will be the preacher.

Mr. Geo. Wilber is moving his household affairs to Lindsay, having purchased a house there.

In connection with the Rural Deane meetings at St. Margaret's, Wilberforce, there will be a Celebration of Holy Communion on Thursday, Sept. 1st, at 9.30 a.m. The service will be taken by the Rural Dean, Rev. J. H. Stringer, Incumbent of Haliburton, assisted by Rev. G. G. Stone, Incumbent of Wilberforce.

Additional addresses will be delivered at this service.

Give us a Hand!

CITIZENS of Ontario—The only salvation for Ontario's revenue-producing forests is the prevention of forest fires. Your support and co-operation is absolutely essential.

Forest fires are rapidly diminishing our resources of timber and pulpwood. Over 90 per cent. of Ontario's forest fires are caused by human carelessness.

If everybody was careful to prevent the start of fire, Ontario's Forest would be safe.

Save Ontario's Forests They're Yours

BUSINESS MEN of Ontario — Lend us a hand. The various business associations — of bankers, boards of trade, manufacturers, merchants, lumbermen, engineers, educationalists, tourists, and sportsmen, and all other bodies of weight and influence, can do a great work for this province and for their own interests as well by actively promoting educational propaganda to reduce forest fires.

RAILWAY OFFICIALS can help. Railways cause 40% of Ontario's Forest fires. The Forestry Branch is being well supported by improved co-operation on the part of railway officials and by the Dominion Railway Board. Let us reduce the number of railway fires, some half this summer. (The train passenger in Northern Ontario who nonchalantly throws his cigarette or cigar out of the window during the forest fire season is deserving of a jail sentence!)

CAMPERS, tourists, fishermen, picknickers, berry pickers, prospectors and hunters should feel their responsibility even though out of sight of the policeman.

SETTLERS can co-operate by exercising more care in setting out fire on their own property.

LUMBER FIRMS can help by impressing on all foremen the need for carefulness. River-drivers in dry seasons should be specially warned. Gangs of men going in and out to the camps need special attention, because of the danger along the slash-lined trails from the inevitable cigarette.

THE PRESS could do more public-spirited constructive work to reduce forest fires than any other single agency. This is a non-political campaign in which the whole press could join.

LEADERS OF PUBLIC OPINION in every community should be the first to extend a helping hand. Tell the Chief Ranger or write the Head Office any time you have information or suggestions to impart, or questions to ask.

GIVE US A HAND!

To him that hath shall be given

Was the Biblical version of our modern saying: "Nothing succeeds like success." So it was with Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., who, over 30 years ago, gave to the world a Prescription which has never been equalled as a tonic for the weaknesses of women. Many women in every hamlet, town or city will gladly testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did them a world of good. Ask your neighbor. Another of this great physician's successful remedies is known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and, like the "Prescription," is now sold by druggists everywhere, in both liquid and tablet form. This medicine was a success from the start, for the list of men and women all over the universe who have successfully used it for indigestion and as a blood tonic and system builder, makes an amazing total of thousands.

IN MEMORIAM

Items under this heading
25c for two verses

In loving memory of Lewina Davis, beloved wife of Leonard Stamp, who died May 6th, 1921.

In prime of life she passed away
Her sorrows here are done,
And long and dreary seems the day
Since we two lived as one.

Then peace and sunshine cheered our home,
And life was melody,
But Death's fell hand has parted us,
My darling wife and me.

In the evening when the sun sinks low,
And my children gather round
I think of one who lies at rest
In Twelve Mile sacred ground.

A God in mercy has called her
From a world of sin and strife,
But my heart shall cling forever
To one who was my wife.

Sadly missed by

HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

1. The first step is to identify the problem. This involves understanding the symptoms and the context in which they are occurring. It is important to gather as much information as possible about the problem, including its history and any previous attempts at resolution.

A NEW STORE POLICY

On September 1st, 1921, our store will adopt the policy of a STRICTLY CASH STORE with the object in view of reducing our overhead expenses and losses and thereby being enabled to sell our goods at a much lower price. Conditions during the past few months have led us to believe that the public are demanding lower priced goods and this can only be accomplished by cutting down expenses---selling for cash---and doing a larger business---making smaller profits and larger turnover.

We believe that the public will appreciate our efforts by taking advantage of these sweeping reductions and as in the past will make their headquarters here while in Lindsay. Our terms will be Strictly Cash with the following exceptions:— All orders sent us by telephone, telegram or letter will be sent out C.O.D. Corporations, institutions and contractors' accounts will be payable on the first of each month after a line of credit has been established.

Power of Radium.

The "gamma" rays from radium are so powerful that they will penetrate virtually every known substance. To human flesh or other live tissue they are very destructive.

It is this tendency of the rays to destroy tissue, says the United States Bureau of Standards, that makes them valuable in the treatment of cancer and for certain other surgical purposes. For while both healthy and diseased tissues are attacked by the rays, their destructive effect upon diseased tissues is much greater and more rapid.

Thus if the patient is treated for exactly the right length of time the diseased tissue will be destroyed while the healthy tissue is not much injured. Obviously, to accomplish a satisfactory result the surgeon must exercise the highest degree of skill and must employ the radium with utmost caution.

There is always danger, to the laboratory worker in dealing with this formidable substance unless the most careful precautions are taken, and under no circumstances should any person be continually exposed to its rays.

Means to Stay.

Little Madge was excited. A baby brother had arrived on the scene. She spread the good news, and among others told the gardener.

"The question is," said the old man, "is the new baby going to stay?"

"Oh, yes, he means to stay," said Madge; "he's got his things off."

MONEY ORDERS.

Dominion Express Money Orders are on sale in five thousand offices throughout Canada.

More farmers die from being tired than from being tired.

Worry.
The thing called worry, if you please, is quite a dangerous disease, so dodge it fully if you can and thereby be a lucky man.

For worry, if it gets control, will make you pay a heavy toll. Just let it once get into power and you'll regret it every hour.

There's nothing like the worry ill that's out to conquer and to kill. It takes the joy of life away and quickly turns the hair to grey.

It kills good humor—quells the grin, and places frowns where smiles have been. So reader, if you'd be in luck, when worry comes be wise, and duck.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery, colic and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours' illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The World's Most Inaccessible Oil Well.

An oil well that can be reached only by swinging in a rope sling operated from a stiff-leg derrick at the top of a 107-ft. cliff, was recently completed at Point Firmin, California. The well is located on a narrow ledge of tide land, and at the bottom of the cliff. The ledge is so narrow that, at high tide, the water rises to within a foot of the rig. Despite the fact that all material and workmen had to be lowered and hoisted from above by means of the derrick and sling, the well was completed without a mishap. This remains still the only way to reach the well.

THE CAUSE OF BACKACHE

Only in Rare Cases Does Backache Mean Kidney Trouble.

Every muscle in the body needs constantly a supply of rich, red blood in proportion to the work it does. The muscles of the back are under a heavy strain and have but little rest. When the blood is thin they lack nourishment, and the result is a sensation of pain in those muscles. Some people think pain in the back means kidney trouble, but the best medical authorities agree that backache seldom or never has anything to do with the kidneys. Organic kidney disease may have progressed to a critical point without developing a pain in the back. This being the case, pain in the back should always lead the sufferer to look to the condition of his blood. It will be found in most cases that the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to build up the blood will stop the sensation of pain in the back. How much better it is to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the blood than to give way to unreasonable alarm about your kidneys. If you suspect your kidneys, any doctor can make tests in ten minutes that will set your fears at rest or tell you the worst. But in any event to be perfectly healthy you must keep the blood in good condition, and for this purpose no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Tricks An Architect Plays on Us.

In the construction of any large building where effectiveness to the eye has to be considered the architect who knows his business takes into view certain illusions of the eye. Thus, for example, a diminishing tower can be made to look higher by decreasing the size of its successive portions more rapidly.

All of what we call perspective is, of course, illusion. Where two objects of equal size are concerned the more distant one looks smaller. A straight railroad track seems to meet at a point in the distance. All the principles of optics that apply to architecture are based upon illusion.

The ancients understood this sort of thing very fully well. Take, for instance, the famous Parthenon of Athens. Its superb columns look as if vertical and parallel, but in reality they are inclined toward one another so much that if they were continued upward, they would meet at the height of about a mile.

Tall columns must be made with a considerable bulge. If their outer lines were straight they would look shrunk in the middle. In the columns of the Parthenon this bulge amounts to three-quarters of an inch.

The long lines of the beam which surmounts a row of columns would appear to sag if they were straight. To satisfy the eye, i.e., to look straight—they must be curved.

The stories of a building, to look of equal height must increase in height as they go up. On one famous temple in the Orient there is an inscription with its letters arranged vertically; but to make the letters appear of equal size they are increased in size progressively toward the top.

The ancient cathedrals scattered over Europe are full of such expedients of illusion, and from those sources our modern architects have acquired many of the hints on which their own designs are based.

Hand-Gun Riveter Has Wonderful Power.

During the war, the Germans had a gun that did actually fire a projectile 75 miles. Up to the present that has been considered the very limit possible in long-range weapons. But there is no limit to modern progress, and a new development in this line has inspired the inventor and others to claim a possible range for a projectile of 300 miles. The new principle has been embodied, as yet, only in a device resembling the ordinary hand-gun riveting machine. In place of the hammer of the riveter, steel slugs are dropped into the barrel of the machine, which is charged with some special smokeless explosive, and fires these slugs into a steel plate 1/2 in. thick. Tests of this machine were made in New York by engineers of repute, and their report of the results, if it came from any other source, would sound like a paradox. For instance, in spite of the enormous power developed by the explosive that makes possible a penetrability that drives a steel slug into a boiler plate, there is practically no recoil to the gun, and no more noise than the click of a typewriter.

Apart from its possibilities as a gun, it has been tested, with highly encouraging results, as an underwater riveter. A diver, at a depth of 35 ft., shot a slug through a plate of steel 1/2 in. thick.

BITS OF HUMOR FROM HERE & THERE

Good Waiter.
"How old was the wall that fell on me?" said the Irishman to the policeman who was carrying him on the ambulance to the hospital.
"Oh, I should say about eighty years," answered the policeman.
"Just my luck," said Pat. "I only arrived from Ireland yesterday, and it waited all that time for me."

Regular Clean-Up.
Mrs. Newrich was having her house redecorated.
"I've just finished the drawing-room," said the foreman; "what shall we do next?"
"You can do the dining-room on Thursday," said Mrs. Newrich.
"What shall we do in the interim, madam?"
"Oh, paper that, too!"

A Fashion Critic.
The city girl spending her holidays in the country, was complaining to the farmer about the savage way the bull regarded her. "Well," said the farmer, "it must be on account of that red waist you're wearing."
"Dear me!" said the girl. "Of course, I know it's awfully out of fashion, but I had no idea a country bull would notice it!"

No Wonder.
One autumn little George entered the same kindergarten that his brother Henry had attended during the previous year. Very frequently the teacher called him Henry by mistake, until she became provoked at herself and said to him:
"I am sorry, George, but I don't know why I always call you Henry."
"I guess I know," said George, seriously. "I've got on Henry's shirt and his pants and his shoes."

Her Order.
A woman on her first railway trip noticed the communication cord overhead, so she gave it a pull with her umbrella. The whistle sounded, the brakes were put on, and the train began to slacken its speed.
Presently the guard appeared and asked, "Who pulled the cord?"
"I did," replied the woman, meekly.
"Well, what do you want?"
"Some ham sandwiches and a cup of tea, please."

Married women are not so steady and reliable workers as are single women.

Toronto Woman Says Since Taking Tanlac All Her Troubles Have Disappeared.

"Before I had taken half a bottle of Tanlac I began to straighten right up and now I feel just fine," said Mrs. O. E. Smith, 169 Yarmouth Road, Toronto, Ont.

"I was told that I had high blood pressure, but whatever my troubles were they began to disappear when I got Tanlac and now I haven't a trace of any of them. For one thing, I suffered from indigestion something awful. After eating, the gas from my undigested food would press up into my chest until my heart fluttered frightfully and at times I actually thought it would stop beating.

My head ached terribly at times and I got so dizzy I couldn't stand up. My kidneys also bothered me and my back and legs hurt constantly. My legs hurt worse while lying down and nights I couldn't sleep any to speak of, so that I always felt tired and worn out.

"But all my troubles are gone now. My digestion is just perfect and I never have a headache or dizzy spell any more. Even those pains have disappeared from my back and legs and I'm so thankful for my good health that I just want to praise Tanlac all the time."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere. Adv.

DO ALL MY HOUSE WORK

Before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could hardly get about.

Cobourg, Ont.—"For many years I have had trouble with my nerves and have been in a general run down condition for some time. I could not do my work half of the time because of the trouble with my monthly sickness. I was told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and advised to try it. It has done me good, and I strongly recommend it. Since I have taken it I have been able to do all my own work, and I also know friends who have found it good. You can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. ELLEN FLATTERS, Box 761, Cobourg, Ont.

Why will women continue to suffer so long is more than we can understand, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For forty years this good old fashioned root and herb remedy, which contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and I held in strict confidence.

The Threshers' Dinner.

The recipes given here may be of assistance to someone who is tired of "the same old things" for the hungry, once-a-year gang of men who come to thresh.

Steamed brown bread—1-1/3 cups graham flour, 2 cups cornmeal, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1-3 cup currants, 1-3 cup raisins, 2 cups sweet milk, 2-3 cup molasses. Mix together flour, meal, baking powder, salt, currants and raisins. Add milk and molasses, beat well and pour into greased baking powder cans. This amount will fill five one-pound cans. Fill cans slightly over half full of batter. Steam three hours.

Ginger cakes—2-3 cup sugar, 2-3 cup molasses, 1/2 cup fat, 1 cup hot water, 1/2 teaspoon each of cloves, ginger and cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder (level), 2 1/2 cups flour, 1 egg. Mix sugar, fat, molasses, hot water and soda together, add about one-half of the dry ingredients (after they are thoroughly mixed), beat well, add the well-beaten egg, then the remaining dry ingredients, beat well again and bake in buttered or greased muffin tins. Bake one-half hour in moderate oven. Recipe makes 15 large cakes in muffin tins.

Baked squash—Cut squash in half, place with cut side down on pie tin in oven, and bake until done. Remove from shell, mash and season with salt, pepper and butter. Put prepared squash in baking dishes in which it can be served. This may be set aside for over night if desired and put in the oven 40 minutes before time to serve it. The advantage in preparing it this way is that it can be prepared beforehand.

Beef cakes with brown gravy—Prepare beef cakes from ground beef which contains plenty of suet. Brown on both sides in a hot spider and when a sufficient number of cakes are browned, remove to a dripping pan, make a thickened gravy in the spider, pour the gravy over the cakes, season with salt and pepper, put in the oven and bake half an hour or more. Serve meat and gravy on a platter together.

Rice pudding—2 quarts whole milk, 1/2 cup rice, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 2-3 cup raisins, nutmeg if liked. Put milk, sugar, salt, raisins and washed rice into a baking dish. Place in a moderate oven and bake 2 1/2 to 3 hours. Stir very often for the first hour. The pudding should be of a creamy consistency. May be served cold or hot. This amount will serve eight or ten.

Baked onion—Prepare onions of medium size, boil 15 minutes in slightly salted water, drain, place in a baking dish, add whole milk to come well up around the onions but not cover them, season with salt and pepper and bake slowly until they can be pierced with a tooth-pick. Serve hot.

Turnips delicious—Pare, slice and cut in small cubes. Put to cook in boiling water. When tender and the water has boiled down some add butter, pepper and salt and then allow the water to all boil out. Stir frequently after the butter is added so that all are thoroughly seasoned.

The Boy's Point of View.

Henry, twelve years old, had been accused of sending in three false alarms of fire. He sat facing the judge of the juvenile court. Near by sat his father, ill at ease, and scowling at his son. Henry's head was bent, but now and then he cast sly, furtive glances at the judge, at his father, and at some of the witnesses. The judge had been sharply watching both the boy and the boy's father. He did not like the way they looked at each other.

HEALTH EDUCATION

BY DR. J. J. MIDDLETON

Provincial Board of Health, Ontario

Dr. Middleton will be glad to answer questions on Public Health matters through this column. Address him at the Parliament Bldgs., Toronto.

There are reasonable and scientific grounds for the belief that during recent years the average span of life is lengthening—that is, that people on the whole are living longer than formerly. To Public Health activity, including the control of communicable disease and generally improved sanitation and observance of public health principles, this increasing longevity is chiefly due. Because, counteracting these reforms are the stress and strain of modern conditions with resulting wear and tear on the human system which have during the past quarter century reduced the average lifetime to 55 years or thereabouts, instead of the allotted three score and ten.

An old saying, with a grain of truth in it, is that a man is as old as he feels, and there is no reason why he should not, at 60 or 70, provided his general health is good, be engaged at useful work without being a burden to anyone.

There are many causes leading up to early or premature death that could be largely eliminated if health habits were formed in early life and more observance made of the quarantine and control of communicable diseases. To illustrate this latter point, take the case of heart disease, which causes an enormous number of deaths in this country every year. What makes the heart diseased and unable to properly carry on its function? There are many causes, but a very important one is poisoning of the heart tissue by germs of communicable disease. Scarlet fever, measles, smallpox, whooping cough, acute pneumonia, rheumatism are among the diseases that affect the heart and prepare the way for sudden or premature death in years to come. Then there is malnutrition, and anemia, where the heart, through its efforts to pump enough of the weakened blood through the system to keep the body strength to normal, is strained or overexerted.

One can readily see how an increased vigilance both on the part of Public Health officials and the general public, can curtail the spread of communicable disease and thereby prevent weakening or injury to the heart, especially in young people who are more susceptible to infectious disease than adults. In fact, there is a noticeable low rate of deaths from heart disease reported in localities not visited by communicable diseases or where protective and quarantine measures are enforced for the prevention or spread of any outbreaks. Child mortality, however, results from many other causes outside that due to organic changes of the heart due to infection. One very noticeable and regrettable of these causes is the motor-car. In Toronto alone, there have been four or five fatalities within the past few days due to children being run down by automobiles. In some instances, of course, the driver is not to blame, but generally speaking, a careful man or woman at the wheel seldom meets with an accident. If so, it is the exception and probably only occurs once. Newspaper readers were interested last week in a despatch from England stating that a motor-car driver was given one year's imprisonment for running over a child with fatal results. There are many cases in Canada that could be thus summarily dealt with to advantage, and it would have the result of making our streets safer for pedestrians. Fatalities to children as the result of automobile accidents must be stopped, and to this and the recent recommendations of a Toronto coroner to have school playgrounds kept open all day, is very commendable. Popular sympathy is nearly always with the injured child, but when youngsters are allowed to play indiscriminately on the streets it is practically impossible to lay the blame entirely to the motor driver. It should be made a criminal offence to allow children under six on a city street without a parent or guardian. Children, however, must play, and the school playground seems the most suitable recreation place for them in large cities. Arrangements might be made to have vacant lots or institutional grounds set apart for children to play in. To prevent damage to property extra caretakers would of course be necessary, but reforms and precautions of this nature are of such vital importance that the question of expense should not be allowed to enter—especially when human life is at stake.

Then, of course, there are avoidable accidents in industry due to lack of protection for the worker at his trade, and often to carelessness on the part of the worker himself.

Add to this the appalling list of deaths of children resulting from improper feeding in childhood and some idea is given of the tremendous but preventable infant mortality amongst us every year.

SIMPLICITY: THE KEYNOTE OF SUMMER LIFE OF COTTAGE COLONIES IN EVANGELINE LAND

RURAL SUMMER HOTEL OVERLOOKING LAKE AT HEBRON

Nova Scotia's wealth of woods and water-ways lends itself most agreeably to summer cottage life and draws greater numbers of sojourners each summer. The many miles-long bays flooded and then laid bare by the shifting tides, have a unique charm and make ideal bathing beaches—beaches that are a huge delight to kiddies. Summer accommodations of Evangeline Land do not run to vast hotels, although there are a number of fine large ones, the greater number of visitors live in comfortable country-side hotels and boarding houses and cottage colonies.

First among the latter stands the Kedgemakooke Rod & Gun Club, located on the shore of Lake Kedgemakooke, at the end of thirty miles of good motor road which begins at historic Annapolis Royal. Kedgemakooke is in the heart of a wild, rich sporting country. Here the fisherman may enjoy excellent fishing, and here the hunter may bag the biggest of moose. The cabins are rustic in design, but modern in equipment, fitted with fireplaces and running water. The general club house is all that a country club should be.

Other well known and popular cabin colonies are found at South West Arm, near Halifax, Annapolis Royal, Evangeline Beach, Milford, Port Lorne and Smith's Cove. Cottages are run in connection with The Pines Hotel at Digby, the Bay View Hotel at Yarmouth and The Gainsborough at Hubbards, while Camp Acadia for girls, located at Hebron, a short five miles from Yarmouth, and Aldercliffe Camp for boys at Weymouth, are old established institutions.

These resorts are either in or close to farming centres and guests are fed on fine fresh dairy and garden products. Bathing, boating and fishing are the principal pastimes. Tennis, golf, squash and croquet grounds are provided at most resorts. Then there is always the lovely historic country to be explored. One cannot travel many miles in any direction without passing spots of historic interest. Here the painter finds inspiration for new canvases; the writer for songs and stories; the tired business man and weary teacher find balm and strength for mind and body, and the busy mother peace and rest while her lively youngsters, safe from city perils, disport themselves in daisy fields or on the red mud flats that at high tide are glorious bathing beaches.

The charges were made, and the witnesses substantiated them. Then the judge casually said to the father, "I suppose you have often talked to your boy about good citizenship?" "I've not bothered much with the young 'rasch'," replied the father. "When I have caught him in the wrong I have thrashed him; but it doesn't seem to have done much good."

"Um," said the judge, "and you never took a walk through the city with your boy and made him feel that you and he belonged to a town of which you could be proud and in which you had your share?"

"I took him to the zoo once," said the father.

"Henry," said the judge, turning to the boy, "do you like horses?"

Henry's head lifted perceptibly. "Yes, I do," he replied, still sulkily.

"Do you like to see horses hitched to a shining red wagon?"

"Yes, I do." The boy's head came up higher.

"And do you like to see the horses and the red wagon going like everything with the driver hanging on to the lines?"

"Yes, sir; yes, sir, I do!" exclaimed Henry, and his eyes were looking straight into those of the judge.

"Would you like to be a fireman and drive such horses through the streets?"

"Yes, sir!"

"Some day, if you show that you can be trusted, you may be a fireman," said the judge, and Henry's eyes gleamed with delight.

"But," continued the judge slowly, "suppose you were a fireman and had to drive often to fires; suppose that just as you reached the fire hall with your tired horses a kid away on the outskirts of the town turned in a false alarm. What would you do to that kid?"

"I'd skin him!"

The judge smiled in an odd way. Henry dropped back into his seat, and his head sank to his breast, but his face wore a different look.

"You see the point," said the judge kindly. "You see now that you have abused the fine fire horses—your fire horses. Now you will think more about those horses after this. Some day, if you prove worthy, your fellow citizens will trust you with just such a fine team."

"I'll be good to them, sir."

Then the judge turned sharply upon the father. "You have a bright boy there, capable of appreciating his rights and his duties as a citizen, and you have neglected him. It is such fathers as you that get their sons into trouble. Do your duty by your boy. If we expect our boys to appreciate our point of view, we must learn to appreciate theirs."

For the Cold-Pack Canner.

The following easy formula for syrups can be adapted for all fruits: Three quarts of sugar to two quarts of water.

For sweet fruits boil one minute.

For raspberries, strawberries, blackberries, huckleberries, boil for five minutes.

For currants, gooseberries, plums, rhubarb, currants, pineapple, sour cherries and other acid fruits boil ten minutes.

For preserves boil until it falls from the side of the spoon in drops.

Most housekeepers make grapejuice but few know that any fruit juice may be extracted and bottled for summer drinks, sherbets, pudding sauces, or other uses. To make juice select sound perfectly ripe fruit, but none that is over-ripe. Wash and place in a kettle with just enough water to prevent sticking. Crush with a wooden masher, and heat thoroughly, but do not let it boil. Put through the jelly bag, and pour in bottles or jars, which have been boiled ten minutes, to within an inch of the top. Fit bottles with new corks which have soaked a half hour in warm soda water. Rinse the corks before using and put loosely in the bottles. It is well to tie a bit of cloth over the cork to prevent its blowing out. Put in boiler of water, having the water come to within an inch of the top of bottle or jar. Simmer, do not boil, twenty minutes. The water should be simmering when bottles are entered. At the end of twenty minutes remove, push corks in firmly, or tighten tops of jars, set aside to cool, and when cold dip in melted paraffin.

Light Housework.

A woman advertised for a servant to do light housework.

She received a letter from a girl who said she would like the position, for she thought the sea air would do her good, but she wanted to know where the light-house was situated.

PARTNERSHIP OF GREAT POWERS TO ENSURE PEACE OF THE WORLD

British Premier Hopes That An Alliance Between British Empire, Japan and United States Will Result From Coming Conference at Washington.

A despatch from London says:—"If the alliance with Japan could be merged into a greater understanding with Japan and the United States on all the problems of the Pacific, that would be a great event, and it would be a guarantee for the peace of the world."

Thus spoke David Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, before the House of Commons on Thursday in outlining the work of the recent conference of the Imperial Premiers.

The Premier was dealing specifically with the Anglo-Japanese alliance at the time, and explaining how the conference had unanimously recognized that Japan loyally had carried out her obligations to Great Britain during the war in letter and in spirit.

Mr. Lloyd George asked if it was to be suggested that Great Britain now should turn her back upon Japan with a mere thank you and good-bye, after Japanese aid had proved one of the turning factors in the war, in that it had given protection to the transit of Dominion and Indian troops across seas.

Even countries disliking the Anglo-Japanese alliance would despise the British if, after such services, Great Britain turned her back upon Japan.

The Premier said he saw no reason why it should be impossible to remember obligations to Japan and at the same time preserve a spirit of fraternity with the United States.

It was a cardinal principle of British policy, the Premier continued, that Great Britain should act in as complete accord with the United States as possible. He did not know of any country in the world with whom it was more important to act in concert. He declared that the surest way to make a success of the disarmament conference was first to reach an understanding on Pacific questions, and he hoped his view in this respect would be taken at the Washington gathering.

SINN FEIN REPLY MAY BE DELAYED

Leaders in No Hurry to Deal With British Government Offer.

Dublin, Aug. 21.—To-morrow the Dail Eireann meets in secret to evolve a reply to the Government's offer. In connection with this fateful session there was a conference of the Sinn Fein "Cabinet" at the Mansion House this afternoon.

It is gathered that the Dail's secret debate on the reply may last some few days. The leaders appear to be in no hurry, and display a leisureliness which quite probably is induced by an expectation at some conciliatory development in the Ulster attitude, remote though this appears to be at the moment. Political gossip goes so far as to specifically mention certain members of the Ulster Cabinet as favoring a rapprochement with the South, but the rank and file of the North are adamant.

Meanwhile the men in the street are quietly confident of a successful issue to the private discussions, and The Dublin Evening Herald, commenting upon Lloyd George's speech, says: "It is generally conceded that the tone was friendly," and infers that "his attitude is not unbending as not to permit of the outline of the scheme being altered or the basis changed."

PREPARE GE MANY U.S. PEACE TREATY

No Reference Made as to Who Caused the War.

Berlin, Aug. 24.—The guilt of Germany in being responsible for the recent world conflict will have no place in the negotiations between Germany and the United States for a separate peace treaty, according to a well-informed despatch in the Deutsches Allgemeine Zeitung here.

The negotiations have proceeded so far that the Government is certain that it can use this argument in its efforts to overcome the political objections of the opposition in the Reichstag.

"If this point is dropped, Germany will be grateful," the German newspaper states. "It would send Germany into the wildest rage if it were forced again to admit guilt for the war, as in the Versailles Treaty."

The principal outlines of the treaty have already been agreed upon, the newspaper continues, and special commissioners will be named to negotiate the details of the document.

EUROPE MUST HAVE GOLD TO AVOID BANKRUPTCY, SAYS ENGLISH ECONOMIST

London, Aug. 21.—"If Europe is to be saved from a wholesale bankruptcy, two things are essential; she must have gold and she must stop printing paper money."

"Another year of the printing presses and all Europe will have paper money which can never be redeemed."

So declares Austin Harrison, noted author and economist, and editor of the English Review.

"Should that point be reached the depreciation will lead to such soaring prices and such fear of the value of the paper, that it will be repudiated the same as it has been in Russia," continues this economist. "Then we will have automatic Bolshevism, collapse, revolution, and night-mare."

"Only America can prevent this tragedy. At the present time her gold is no good to her; whereas, if given to Europe, it would enable Europe to buy and America to sell. That is the only way to rebuild Europe's pre-war wealth which was shot away during the war."

"Every country with 'mad' exchange should be given gold in order to 'peg' their exchanges. By this means the flow of goods and credits could be restarted. In the end it would pay America handsomely."

"Will America act? If not, she will find her European trade killed, and both Great Britain and America growing poorer and poorer."

"America has made a colossal financial mistake. Unless we are all to become involved in the most shattering disaster in history, gold must be used to adjust our broken economic mechanism."

"To save Europe from bankruptcy, America must throw out her gold—her whole billion sterling if necessary, with the Allies cancelling their war debts to each other as they become due. This must be done quickly to avert the crash."

IRISH EMIGRATION REVIVING AGAIN

Since 1851 4,388,199 People Have Left Ireland.

A despatch from London says:—"Irish emigration, which practically ceased during the war on account of the British Government's restrictions, is now reviving, according to an official report just published. In 1920 the emigrants numbered 25,585, as compared with 2,975 in 1919, when the prohibition was still on. Last year's figure, however, is only about half the pre-war rate, and this undoubtedly is partly because the 'Irish Republican Government' discouraged the emigration of able-bodied men. In fact, there were only 6,044 men as compared with 9,487 women."

The seasonal feature of the report is the statement that from 1851 to the end of last year, 4,388,199 Irishmen and women emigrated—only 131,801 less than the present population of the country."

Fire Menace in N. B. Ended by Rain

A despatch from St. John, N.B., says:—"A heavy downpour of rain throughout the province on Thursday destroyed the fire menace which still lingered in many parts of New Brunswick. The rainfall during the day was almost as great as the entire precipitation during the month of July."

The gallery of the Lyceum Theatre, London, holds 1,000 people.

$84,000 Paid for 1,120-Acre Saskatchewan Farm

A despatch from Winnipeg, Man., says:—"A farm of 1,120 acres, in the Gull Lake district, Sask., sold recently for the sum of $84,000. It was a typical example of the agricultural progress in prairie districts. Another indication of agricultural growth with the settlement of new lands is shown in reports on tractor sales. Western Canada has purchased 10,279 tractors in the last year, and orders for 7,500 more are expected to be placed by the three prairie provinces this year."

Turkish Cavalry Annihilated by Greeks

Smyrna, Aug. 21.—After four days' fighting the Greeks have reached several points on the west bank of the Sakaria River, while the right wing, marching through the salt desert, was crushed beyond the river, the Turkish left wing capturing 170 officers and 4,000 men. The Turkish cavalry here was annihilated. In the centre, on the west bank of the Sakaria, strong fighting is continuing and a decisive battle is expected within a day or so.

TWO BOY SCOUTS FOR ANTARCTIC CRUISE

Shackleton Selects Fortunate Youths as Cabin Boys on the Quest.

A despatch from London says:—"Two Scottish boy scouts will shortly embark on a cruise of adventure, such as their comrades throughout the world daily dream about, for Sir Ernest H. Shackleton, the Antarctic explorer, has selected them from among 10 competitors to accompany him in his coming Antarctic expedition as cabin boys aboard his ship The Quest."

The youths are Patrol Leaders J. W. S. Marr of Aberdeen, aged 19, and N. E. Mooney of Kirkcaldy, in the Orkney Islands, aged 17. The 10 picked applicants came to London from all parts of the United Kingdom. Sir Ernest interviewed them to ascertain their qualifications and found so much talent that he could not make a decision until Thursday.

Young Mooney came all the way from the stormy Orkneys, a journey of 600 miles. He had never seen passenger railway trains before and was so confused by the big city and its strangers that Sir Ernest could not get him to talk. However, Mooney has a winning personality and knows all about boats and the sea, so does Marr.

The Quest will sail at the end of this month, to be gone two or more years.

King of Jugo-Slavia is Dangerously Ill

A despatch from Paris says:—"A crisis has developed in the attack of appendicitis from which King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia is suffering, in a hospital in Neuilly, which probably will necessitate an operation immediately. The Charge d'Affaires of the Serbian Legation here declared on Thursday."

The charge d'Affaires explained that Alexander now is King of Jugo-Slavia, which is composed of Serbia, Croatia and Slovenia, although during the lifetime of his father, the late King Peter of Serbia, he bore the title of reigning Prince.

Germany Has Cash Ready for Indemnity

A despatch from Berlin says:—"Germany has bought all the foreign exchange necessary to pay the remaining 750,000,000 gold marks for reparation due before August 31, according to semi-official statements. If the Government really has the reparation sum, the mark will rise, otherwise speculators expect to see it fall to 100 to the dollar."

QUEEN ALEXANDRA'S HEALTH CAUSES GRAVE ANXIETY

A despatch from London says:—"A sudden change for the worse in the state of Queen Alexandra's health is causing the greatest anxiety to the Royal family. It has resulted in her cancelling all of her social engagements on the urgent advice of her physicians. Queen Alexandra has not been in the best of health for the past three years. In recent months ear and throat trouble has been causing her intense discomfort, which explains why she has been seen so little in public.

Much against her own wishes she has been obliged to participate in important functions, but even this has been stopped for fear of overtaxing her strength. At the present moment she requires the most careful nursing at Sandringham, where it is hoped that the quiet and the bracing air may aid in her recovery.

King George and Queen Mary are most anxious about Queen Alexandra's condition.

PLAYING SAFE

BY HENRY C. ROWLAND

PART II.

She found herself suddenly alone. There were no more sounds of human presence, nor crushing fabrics, but a torrent of water seemed cascading over the roof of the car as a river flows over a dam, with swirling, sucking gurgles. Then, to her horror, Claire felt a warm trickle about her head, thrusting her arm through the aperture, she felt the flood up to the very edge of her berth.

In those few terrible seconds, she was able to realize what had happened. There had been a cloudburst and a low trestle crossing some torrential river-bed, normally dry at that season, had been washed out and given way. And here she was imprisoned, probably the only one in the car to be thus helpless, as otherwise there must have been cries for help.

No doubt the torrent was continuing to rise, in which case she must be drowned like a rat in a trap unless speedily released.

"At any rate this solves my problem," she thought, and at that moment there came the sloshing of water in the aisle and a voice said cheerfully: "Now I'll soon have you out of this. Keep over against the window side."

Followed a smashing and splintering, apparently the blows of a train ax directed against the partition at her feet. But as these continued the flood rose higher about her until her body was half submerged. The car seemed to settle a little, so that Claire's body was covered and she was forced to raise her head to keep it clear. And all of this in Stygian blackness.

"Now we'll see," said the vibrant voice huskily. Claire's hands were against the lid of her aqueous coffin, when she felt it suddenly lift. "Ship out," panted a voice.

She squirmed through the aperture and found herself splashing about in two or three feet of water.

"All right," said the voice and a hand flung about gripped her by the shoulder and helped her to her feet.

The car was at an angle of forty-five degrees and like people aboard a sailing vessel in a gale, they managed to crawl and scramble to the platform. Crossing this they entered the car ahead, which was slanted at a lesser angle, while the water in the aisle was not so deep. They made their way the length of this, Stephen in the lead, and on reaching the forward platform he paused with an exclamation of dismay.

"Good Lord!—the rest of the train is gone."

"Into the river?" Claire asked tremulously.

"I don't think so." He peered out into the murk. "It's not very deep and we could see it if it had. We were moving very slowly when the side of the trestle gave way. This car is on the track. The passengers from ours must have gone through to the car ahead of this when they uncoupled the train and went on."

"We've got to get out of this and quick," said Stephen. "The trestle is apt to go at any moment, or our car might roll over and drag this one after it. We're shipwrecked in Arkansas. But we've got to have a raft. Wait a moment."

He plunged into the oblivion of the car and, above the crash of the rain and the gurgling sounds of the torrent, Claire heard the clattering and banging of loose planks. Lacking the resourcefulness of her rescuer, she could not imagine what he hoped to find as material for a raft in a sleeping car. But she was enlightened when a few minutes later Stephen emerged and propped in the doorway what sounded like a heap of planks.

"These are the triangular partitions from between the upper berths."

"Come on," said he to Claire. "Lie halfway across this thing and we'll cast off. Hurry. The car's apt to topple over at any minute."

Claire followed his instructions and a moment later they were swirling away through the inky murk, partly submerged but floated easily by the wood partitions. The water was warm as new milk and about as thick, although this was not immediately discoverable. As the bed of the stream was smooth there were no waves, but occasionally they were caught in a whirlpool and twisted about from side to side.

"What do you think now of playing safe?" she asked.

"There's no such thing. I've hung on to it so far, though," and he rapped the panel beneath him with his knuckles.

"Well, I don't begrudge it to you, now. You saved me from a very oozy death. What if you hadn't been able to get me out?"

"Then I'd have kept you company. There's no good in hating one's self for all one's life."

His hand was close to hers. Claire laid hers on the back of it for a moment with a sudden impulsive pressure. "Thank you," she said.

The pressure was returned and for several moments they drifted on in silence.

The rain stopped suddenly as though somebody had turned off the faucet of the shower and the silence struck upon them with a sort of shock. There was no noise beyond the low murmuring voice of the flood, a sort of deep, musical diapason. Then presently the heavy clouds seemed to roll up at the edges and the brilliant summer stars shone down upon them from a widening zone of fathomless sky. Dark high banks loomed up on either side at a distance of several hundred yards. But staring downstream was like looking straight out to open sea.

"Just as I thought," said Stephen. "This is a big shallow torrential tributary of the Arkansas, and it can't be very far away." His eyes pierced the gloom, now rapidly lightening, and suddenly he gave a gasp of dismay.

"Lovely morning," said Stephen. "What's that thing ahead?"

"A house," said Claire.

"We had better transship," said Stephen. "We've drifted out into the Arkansas not far from where it empties into the Mississippi, and if we have to go onto Vicksburg we will be more comfortable aboard a larger vessel. Let's kick this boat of ours ahead."

He shifted himself around to the side of Claire and they began to strike out with their feet, driving their float at a fair progress which promised soon to overhaul the house not far ahead. There was slight danger of the partitions sliding apart, the buoyancy of those beneath thrusting them up against the submerged one on which their weight rested; also because the apex of their triangle was between Claire and Stephen.

"A twin-propeller craft," Stephen observed; "non-capsizeable and non-sinkable."

"One ought to play safe with a big gold shipment. Thanks to you, I'm still alive and kicking," Claire answered.

And, thanks to the kicking, they were soon able to exchange a precarious float for a more stable one. The floating house, which looked like a big square box, had revolved in an eddy so that its front was now presented obliquely to them, about ten feet of it being above the water, while the rear was awash. Two upper-storey windows were clear of the stream, and above these was painted an inscription in crude vermilion letters, the n's and s's reversed: "Cotton Pickers' Bank," and beneath, "Storage."

"Good thing for the cotton pickers they haven't started to pick," Stephen observed. "Let's kick this thing around to the back."

They accomplished this and found the rim of the roof about a foot under the yellow water. Stephen passed his valise aboard, scrambled up after it, then turned and held out his hand to Claire, who now for the first time realized with a shock that she was scarcely clad at all. But there was no help for it, and being a sensible girl, she took the outstretched hand, and a moment later was standing, as Stephen expressed it, "on the quarter-deck," a superb, unshrinking figure in her thin, wet silk pajamas. Stephen, without glancing at Claire, began to drag the pieces of Pullman partition up onto the roof. Their weight had caused the flimsy structure to career at an even greater angle.

"What now?" asked Claire.

"Watch and learn," he answered.

Stretching the chain across the corner of one stone, he began to strike it with the other, about a foot from his wrist.

"You think of everything, don't you?" said Claire.

"Ah! but you see I'm an inventor." "But is that playing safe?" she asked amused.

"It would prove so if I should happen to fall overboard. But my present object is to survive over and get that skiff. Then we can split paddles off our raft and row ashore."

He continued his hammering softly, so as not to break the stone, which was wearing considerably from the process.

"I suppose you think," Stephen observed as he tapped away, "that the contents of this valise should by rights belong to you?"

"Not now," Claire answered. "Any such claim is more than settled."

He shot her a sidelong look, then glanced quickly away, reddening slightly. "Then you consider that there is no existing claim between us?"

"I didn't say that. I said that what possible claim I might have on you was settled."

Tap tap tap! His head was bowed over his task and Claire, glancing at him in turn, discovered that his shipwrecked condition added to rather than diminished his attractiveness. His chestnut hair in places matted and his skin was very pale and fine, his eyes doubly fringed with long, black, curling lashes and his profile of pure classic Grecian type without the softness lent by the chisel of Praxiteles. He had more jaw and chin than square jawed and rounded, while the lips, instead of being full, were straight and firm.

Thrilling Elevator Ride to Alpine Summit.

For years one of the most thrilling incidents of a visit to the Alps has been the ascent of the Jungfrau on the cog-railroad that starts from Kleine Schidegg, at an elevation of 6,711 ft. and reaches the mountainside at the starting grade of 25 per cent., or an angle of about 22 deg. till it reaches Jungfraujoch, at an elevation of 11,339 feet.

It is now proposed to add to this wonderful experience in mountain climbing a still more thrilling by comparison with the former will appear quite insignificant. From the present end of the track the mountain soars another 2,206 ft. to the summit at an elevation of 13,547 ft. By means of excavations and tunnels the track will be extended until it reaches a spot in the centre of the conical summit directly below its highest point. From the end of this tunnel a shaft will be bored vertically to the summit itself, and in this shaft passenger elevators will be installed so that Alpine mountaineers will find their long thrilling railroad climb with an elevator trip like an exaggerated ride to the top of the Woolworth building in New York City. The climber will find them landed at the extreme summit of one of the highest peaks in the Alps, with a view of a world of snow-clad craggy mountain tops around them.

Getting Automobile Sense

Time was, not so very long ago, when thousands of men were crippled or killed while coupling freight cars. It was considered unavoidable. Circular saws, planers, and all sorts of sharp-cutting, swiftly moving machinery took their annual toll in lives and limbs. It, too, was "unavoidable."

With the perfection of motor vehicles came high-powered, quickly responsive engines, and the natural impulse of most people, especially the younger, to travel faster and faster. To one who reduces his auto speed from 35 or 40 miles an hour to 20 it seems as if he were barely moving; yet his car is travelling 29 feet a second. Even an active, alert person does not go very far in five seconds, but the car, if unchecked, will have gone 150 feet. With the demand for speed ability in a car, manufacturers increased performances, until now even a moderate-priced car is guaranteed to do its 60 or 80 miles an hour, and some, 90 or 100 miles. With improved roads also came the temptation to "step on it." However, rate of speed is a relative thing, for at times and places 40 miles an hour is safer to the public than 20 miles a few hours later. The earlier restrictions as to speed have therefore, wisely, been revised in many cities and states, and especially outside corpor-

Canada Takes Her Sixth Decennial Census.

On June 1, 1921, the Dominion of Canada began taking her sixth decennial census since the confederation. Officially the entire population is supposed to be counted between sunrise and sunset of that day. In reality the census in the cities and suburban communities was completed in from three to four weeks. In the far wildernesses, the work took from five to eight weeks, and some returns from within the Arctic circle will require about four months to reach the capital, Ottawa. The general estimate in advance of the compiling of the figures is that these will show Canada to have 9,000,000 population. On this basis, the dominion, with an area of 3,729,665 square miles, has a little more than two inhabitants to the square mile.

No other country in the world's census taking nearly approaches that of the Dominion in magnitude, as the few cities lie along a fringe 3,800 miles long. The total cost of the sixth census was a little over $2,000,000. The work required 240 commissioners and 11,500 enumerators. In the far-northern regions the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Hudson Bay factors, and the missionaries acted as enumerators and every Eskimo that could be located was put down. The Indians were enumerated by the Indian agents. Among the chief questions asked each resident of the Dominion for the form entitled population, were name, place of abode, personal description, nativity of parents, birthplace, citizenship, number of languages spoken, occupation, employment, earnings for last year, time sick, time idle, if immigrant year of coming to Canada, date of taking out naturalization papers, whether owner of house or lodger, if latter rent paid, material in house, number of rooms, married or single, whether can read or write. The farmer had the hardest task, having to answer no less than 220 questions, some of which were: amount of improved land, waste land, cost of labor, number of fruit trees, domestic animals, tractors, automobiles, etc., amount of all products sold during year. The census sheet covering manufacturing, trading, and business merely called for firm name, address, and nature of operations.

Canada can claim the distinction of being the first country in modern times to inaugurate a census taking. This took place in the year 1666, in New France, as Canada was at that time known. The result showed a white population of 3,215.

Scotland for Work!

Those who dislike work should dwell in Turkey and avoid Scotland, for these two countries are at the top and bottom respectively in the list of the countries of the world as regards public holidays.

Turkey has twenty-six holidays in the year, when business is entirely suspended; thrifty Scotland has five.

If, however, we include local holidays, Brazil comes first with eighty-four, and the United States second with fifty-four; but a citizen of either republic who set out to keep them all would have to travel about quite a lot!

August is the favorite holiday month in Britain. Taking the world over, however, November comes first, twenty-six out of its thirty days being kept as official holidays by as many different countries. May comes next, with twenty-five.

Italy celebrates twenty-three general public holidays, Germany twenty, France eighteen, Great Britain sixteen, Japan fifteen, and Portugal eight.

NURSES

The Toronto Hospital for Incurables, in affiliation with Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, New York City, offers a three years' course of training to young women, having the required education, and desirous of becoming nurses. This Hospital has adopted the eight-hour system. The pupils receive uniforms of the School, a monthly allowance and travelling expenses to and from New York. For further information apply to the Superintendent.

Explaining.

The man himself is his own best explanation and exculpation. If we are not fit to be taken on trust for what we are, all that we may say about ourselves will not help much.

When a prisoner is arraigned upon a charge of crime the first effort made in his defense is to procure character witnesses. They tell of him as they have always known him, to establish the antecedent improbability that such a man as his acts have shown him to be would do the thing of which he stands accused.

"Many doubts deserve not to be cleared," said wise old Samuel Johnson. Public men, attacked for things they never thought of doing, have learned to be patient and keep silence under a running fire of censure from those who would be well pleased if they could pull them down.

Shakespeare's Othello at his best refused to listen to suspicions of Desdemona, and indignantly repelled them with the words:

"When I shall turn the business of my soul

To such exaufligate and blown surmises!"

and it would have been well for him if he had been steadfast in the noble and high-minded attitude.

But he listened instead to the voice of a mean and low malignity, and his self-ruin was the sequel.

The old saying is, "Explanations do not explain." The French have the saying, "He who excuses himself accuses himself." Those who would forever be setting forth the reasons for their conduct—in the eagerness to justify themselves—are a weariness of the flesh and of the spirit. The anxiety to set forth in painful and elaborate detail all the whys and wherefores that led up to something done and bygone is a kind of disease that must be fought against as we would give battle to pellagra among human beings or phylloxera among the vines. For if it does not waste human tissue or vegetable substance, it wastes time, and time is the stuff of which life itself is made.

"What say they? Let them say!" That old, defiant family motto is not a bad slogan for those who put the accomplishment of the world's work forever ahead of the assertion of their own worth.

The War Incubus.

It has recently been computed that the money loss, due directly and indirectly to the war, and making no allowance whatever for the loss of human life, is $350,000,000,000. Like the number of miles to some distant star, the amount is so staggering as to cause a sort of mental insensibility; because even great financiers, accustomed to thinking in large amounts, can but feebly sense this vast amount.

It is good for us to reflect on the price we are all paying for Germany's war. But for that war the three hundred and fifty thousand millions would have been spent for churches, houses, roads, schools, presents for little children, savings against old age, comfortable clothes for the old, and pretty dresses for the young. Millions of comforts the world would have had during the seven years past. But it is all gone, and billions of it yet unpaid, which will tax the world for at least two generations.

A Bright Lad.

"And so this is little Walter!" said the visitor. "Dear me, what a big boy you've got to be! I wouldn't have believed it possible!"

"Mother," said Walter, when the visitor had gone, "doesn't it pass your comprehension how persons in whom one would naturally expect an ordinary degree of intelligence appear to believe, all history and Nature to the contrary, that the children of their acquaintance will always remain infants, and persist in expressing surprise when they observe the perfectly natural increase in one's stature?"
